The Sky Tells a Story: HERCULES is overhead sitting directly in front of the head of DRACO the Dragon. The brightest star of the northern hemisphere, VEGA dominates the NE sky. Below Vega are the two other bright stars of the SUMMER TRIANGLE; DENEK is at the top of the Northern Cross, known as CYGNUS the Swan to the Romans. It is one of the most luminous stars in our Galaxy, about 50,000 times brighter than our Sun. To the south is ALTAIR, the brightest star of Aquila the Eagle. VENUS dominates the western sky for the rest of the year, and moves below SATURN on August 8th, then passes below MARS on August 19th. Mars too lies in the evening sky, very distant from earth. Both Mars and Saturn are setting earlier each evening, and will be lost in the sun's glare by September. In the east, JUPITER rises in Pisces about 10 PM at the start of August, and about 8:30 PM by month's end. The PERSEID METEOR Shower takes place 12-13 August. Watch for up to 60 meteors per hour as conditions should be perfect in the days following the new moon (no moon visible).
